Sepehr Ghaffari

An engineer with green aspirations
Vienna, Vienna, Austria

Summary

A fervent 'Green Engineer', my proficiency lies at the crossroads of sustainability, engineering, and data analysis. I have navigated through diverse roles in operational management, consulting, and technical engineering, which has forged me into a versatile problem-solver. My approach is characterized by the application of advanced tools such as R and OpenCLA to design and implement sustainable solutions that balance progress with responsibility. Having an extensive experience in project coordination strategies, I bring a unique and dynamic skill set to any team. Committed to sustainable development and fluent in using data to drive decision-making, I am prepared to make significant contributions in roles that intertwine technology's potency with a steadfast commitment to a greener future.
